

LEWIS THOMASON

Lewis Thomason Names New Shareholders

Brian S. Faughnan, J. Wallace Irvin, Whitney Henry Kimerling and Christopher B. Sullivan have been named shareholders at Lewis Thomason.

Brian S. Faughnan, in the Memphis office, focuses his practice on ethics, commercial litigation, and appellate litigation.

J. Wallace Irvin, in the Nashville office, focuses his practice on construction law with an emphasis on the representation of architects and engineers against professional liability allegations as well as contractors in a wide variety of industry matters.

Whitney Henry Kimerling, in the Nashville office, regularly represents businesses and individuals in a variety of litigation-related practice areas as well as representing financial institutions in loan transactions and counseling small business clients.

Christopher B. Sullivan, in the Memphis office, encompasses many aspects of civil and criminal litigation, including medical malpractice defense, healthcare liability and fraud, transportation and personal injury.

For more information, visit www.lewisthomason.com.

About Lewis Thomason

Lewis Thomason has offices in Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis. Lewis Thomason attorneys cover the entire state of Tennessee and serve regional and national clients. Several of the firm's lawyers are licensed in the states of Mississippi, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Alabama, Virginia, California and Florida and Ontario, Canada.

###

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

Tanya Freeman

615-259-1366

tfreeman@lewisthomason.com