

PROFESSIONAL RECOGNITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Attorney Leigh-Taylor White with Shea Moskovitz & McGhee has been named a Rising Star by Super Lawyers, a list issued annually by Thomson Reuters.

Super Lawyers is a rating service of outstanding lawyers from more than 70 practice areas who have attained a high degree of peer recognition and professional achievement. Fewer than 2.5% of all attorneys in the Mid-South are selected as Super Lawyers. The selection process is multi-phased and includes independent research, peer nominations and peer evaluations.

A native of Batesville, Mississippi, White earned her undergraduate degree in philosophy from Rhodes College in 2002 and went on to earn her J.D. from The University of Mississippi in 2005. Upon graduating law school, she clerked for the Honorable David M. Ishee during his tenure with the Mississippi Court of Appeals. Licensed to practice law in Tennessee and Mississippi, she has also been admitted to the U.S. District Courts in the Western District of Tennessee, the Northern and Southern Districts of Mississippi, and the U.S. Court of Appeals Fifth and Sixth Circuits.

She is a member of the Memphis Bar Association (and has served as president of the MBA Family Law Section), the Tennessee Bar Association and the Mississippi Bar Association. She has significant experience in civil litigation including family law, federal civil rights, business disputes, employment law, and contested estates. White concentrates her practice in the areas of divorce, child custody/parenting, alimony, child support, adoption, parentage/paternity, and prenuptial agreements. She regularly provides pro bono legal services for Memphis Area Legal Services and the Community Legal Center.
